Keeping the Bell Ringing: Know Our Illness Policy

Did you know that during a health inspection, Local Health Department inspectors may ask team members questions about our Employee Illness Policy? Every team member plays an important role in protecting our guests, coworkers, and restaurants by understanding and following these guidelines.

Please take a few minutes to review the Employee Illness Policy so you are prepared to answer questions confidently if an inspector visits your restaurant. Understanding when to report symptoms or illnesses, who to notify, and when it is safe to return to work helps us maintain a safe environment for everyone.

Here are a few reminders:

- Know which symptoms and illnesses must be reported to your manager.
- If you're feeling sick, notify your manager before reporting to work.
- Follow all return-to-work requirements before coming back to your shift.
- If you have questions about the policy, ask your RGM. They're here to help.

The Employee Illness Policy can be found on your restaurant's communications board for easy reference.

Thank you for doing your part to protect our team, serve our customers safely, and keep our restaurant inspection ready every day!

Back-to-School Scheduling Reminder

As the new school year approaches, we ask all student team members to meet with your General Manager to discuss your upcoming availability. Providing your schedule in advance allows your restaurant to plan ahead, recruit and train new team members if needed, and ensure we continue to provide great service to our customers. Thank you for helping us prepare for a successful back-to-school season!

YOU HAVE A VOICE!

Employees can text or call anytime they feel they have been treated unfairly, harassed in any way including sexual, to speak about unsafe work conditions, or have any issues with pay or being paid properly and on time.
